

SEARCH BLOGFLAG BLOGNext Blog»Create Blog | Sign In

Over The Green

This is the golf and opinion blog for Steve Habel, a freelance journalist based in Austin, Texas. Habel travels the world playing golf, writing about the courses and rounds he has played and about some of the characters he meets along the way. Habel also covers University of Texas sports so expect to see some news about the Longhorns in this blog as well. He was formerly the media coordinator for Bechtol Golf Design, so some of Bechtol's ideas and golf courses are featured in older entries.

Blog Archive

▼ 2009 (15)

▼ July (1)

Kudos to Horseshoe Bay, even with the difficulty a...

▶ June (1)

▶ May (3)

▶ April (2)

▶ March (3)

▶ February (2)

▶ January (3)

▶ 2008 (26)

About Me

Over The Green

View my complete profile

Monday, July 6, 2009

Kudos to Horseshoe Bay, even with the difficulty at Ram Rock

The Texas Golf Writers' Association, of which I am a proud member, finished its annual meeting last Monday at the fabulatasic Horseshoe Bay Resort. We all got to play two of the resort's three golf courses (Slick Rock was used as a warm up and friendly get together in advance of our championship round at Ram Rock), and some of us even stayed for a third round at Applerock.

All three of the courses are in spectacular shape, thanks to the work of director of agronomy Kenny Gorzycki's team of workers and the total efforts of Glenn Lee, HSB's director of golf, and his staff.

I can not tell you how much fun we all had at the Horseshoe Bay Resort, and it would be hard to find a better golf experience anywhere than we all encountered in the steamy final weekend on June on the constant-level Lake LBJ. The meals and accommodations were over-the-top great, surpassed perhaps only by the hospitality and service of the people that work at the resort and its golf courses.

And the service we saw was not provided only because we were all writers. Take a look at the feature I wrote on HSB for Cybergolf here and remember that when I was in town last winter to work on that story the vibe was every bit the same - wonderful.